The "dear people" have the bills to foot after all.There is a dearth of amusements first-class troupe come along? We ing the Court opened at 10 o'clock, and the following is a brief synopsis of the proceedings:State vs. Wilson Bridges was called up, charged with murder, and the defendant was arraigned and remanded to jail.State vs. Geo. W. Swenson came up, and the defendant was called and failed; judgement vis.State vs. Peter Badger, affray, was peared, exhibited his license from the Supreme Court, and was admitted to practice as an attorney of the Court.The Court adjourned while the trial of the case of the State vs. Sheppard et al, was progressing, to meet this morning at 10 o'clock.To-day, the case of Simpson Mordecai and the other negroes who robbed and beat Mr. Hicks some time ago, comes up.FURTHER.—The only excitement on Fayetteville street yesterday was the "spilling out" of a one mule wagon, Jas.

H. Moore, Esq., the Steward of the Lunatic Asylum, which broke down in front of the office of the Southern Express Company. Mr. Moore was coming into town to lay in some necessary supplies for the Asylum, and in the wagon was a two gallon jug to contain its portion of salt supplies. In the break down, Mr. Moore was thrown in such a way as to cause him to perform that most difficult feat, and that of his age, the double somersault. We witnessed the feat and must say it was well done, reflecting much credit upon the capacity of Mr. Moore, considering this was his first appearance before the public.The jug aforesaid came tumbling after Mr. Moore and striking him on the back of his head, caused a severe indenture in—the jug, which was the only casualty we could report; the wagon being taken to the shop and speedily repaired.A BEARDESS AND HAIRLESS MAN.—
We are informed by a friend from Greensboro, that there is a gentleman in that city who is beardless and hairless.His face is as smooth as the face of an infant only three weeks old. His head is entirely bald, and a hat of his age and of mysterious life, that he has been that way every since his birth. He wears a closely fitted wig. He is about thirty-five years of age, and is married and has a family of two or three children; has good health, and has not lost a single day's work by sickness in many years. This mystery puzzles the most eminent physicians, not one being able to account for it.THE HOP AT THE NATIONAL.—The New Year's hop at the National last evening was indeed a crowning success.The large ball room of the Hotel was filled at an early hour with the beauty and gallantry of the city, and the Terpsichorean exercises enjoyed as usual to the hearts' content of all present. Several sets were kept up till a late hour, and all departed, seemingly well pleased with the pleasure and enjoyment of the occasion.The proprietors of the hotel and the polite and affable Manager, Mr. Partin, know well how to cater to the wants of their guests, as evidenced in their first attempt before the public last night.OMITTED.—The name of Samuel Johnston Skinner was omitted yesterday in the list of gentlemen licensed to practice law by the Supreme Court.Mr. Skinner hails from the live town of Henderson, Granville county.

A GREAT COMFORT.—A few days

since we gave a brief notice of the Bartlett & Pomeroy's adjustable Spring Bed, which has been on exhibition at the Yarrowburgh House. We have since had the pleasure of testing its merits by actual trial, and most cheerfully re-assert what we at first said. It is all that comfort, ease and economy could demand.It has also been tested by some of our leading citizens, and they have all willingly given testimony to its merit.Mr. Pomeroy has shown us certificates from Dr. Eugene Grissom, of the Insane Asylum, Rev. T. H. Pritchard, Prof.
John B. Burwell, of the Peace Institute,
Dr. G. W. Blackhall, of the Yarrowburgh
House, and Thomas H. Briggs, Esq., who have tried the spring bed and who unhesitatingly speak of its great comfort and ease.Messrs. Bartlett & Pomeroy design establishing a manufactory in this city, if they can succeed in getting some one to take hold of it, which we hope they can do, as we believe in encouraging every enterprise to come into our midst. We are assured that an abundance of suitable timber is to be found in this section.The price of the beds places them within the reach of all, and yet we are informed by Mr. Pomeroy that parties wishing to engage in the manufacture of the spring bed could find in it a most handsome revenue. Mr. Pomeroy and his agent, Mr. Pettigrew, will take pleasure in exhibiting the bed to any one.They can be found by application at the Yarrowburgh House.THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE OF THE STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—This Committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the Yarrowburgh, at the instance of the President, Col. T. M.
Holt, who was present. No business of a positive character was transacted, the time of the meeting being occupied in hearing reports from the Building and Selling Committees and in examining the draughts of the buildings to be erected upon the new grounds just west of the city.It is estimated that the designed improvements will cost some $20,000, and the citizens of this city and those in the State interested in the matter will give to the Committee a proper support, they will arrange to a grounds second to but few in the country. The plan of the Rural hall building is a most excellent one, its dimensions being 240 by 36 feet, with an octagon centre three stories high. We hope to see the Committee go forward with its work with the same energy which they have already manifested in the matter, as we are confident they will do.An adjourned meeting of the Committee will be held at the Yarrowburgh this evening at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.CANE PRESENTATION.—On yesterday
W. H. Crow, Esq., presented James C.
King, Chief of Police of this city, with a handsome walking cane as a testimonial of that officer's efficiency in working up the late clothes robbery, and his success recovering the stolen articles. We are glad that Mr. King's services have been rewarded by this mark of appreciation, as he is faithful and zealous in the discharge of all the duties pertaining to his office, and has the confidence of all who know him.M. B. & L. ASSOCIATION.—The 45th regular meeting of the "MECHANIC'S BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION," will be held at the COURT HOUSE, on Friday evening 10th inst., at 7 1/2 o'clock.Bills can be paid to the undersigned at his store No. 33, Fayetteville street.
All dues must be paid by Friday night,
or the bills will be strictly enforced.

Wm. SIMMONS, Secretary.

PARDONED.—David Collins, of Rutherford county, convicted at September (1871) term of the U. S. Circuit Court in this city of a violation of the enforcement act and sentenced to five years imprisonment in the Albany Penitentiary, has been pardoned by the President. The papers for his discharge were sent from the U. S. Marshal's office in this city yesterday morning.QUICK WORK.—More than $100,000 of the capital stock of the North Carolina State Life Insurance Company, organized on yesterday, was taken by 4 1/2 o'clock, P. M., thus receiving the charter passed by the Legislature.This looks like work in earnest, and we have reasons to believe that this Company will continue as they have commenced.DISSOLUTION OF CO PARTNERSHIP.— Messrs. Morgan, Lassiter and Church announce in an advertisement this morning, that the co-partnership heretofore existing between them is dissolved by mutual consent. The affairs of the late firm will be settled by Mr. C. Lassiter, whose address is Smithfield, N.

Aid for the Cuban Revolutionists—
A Bloody Affray, &c.New York, Jan. 8.—An Aspinwall letter states that the steamer "Edgar Stewart," which had received a new crew from New York, and was announced as having sailed from Cathage, has really sailed for Cuba, with her large cargo of arms and ammunition to the revolutionists. She is under the command of Gen. M.
Aquero who heretofore has been quite successful in similar expeditions. Of some sixty of the crew, forty-one are recruits for the Cuban army.At a free fight among quarymen in a drinking house in Centerville, a handle near Centerville, New Year's night, a Miss Hill had a top of her head beaten in, and Mrs. Stewart had several ribs broken and was fatally injured.Another woman was also brutally beaten, and some twenty men combatants were all more or less injured.
The fight was one of unusual savagery.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 9 1873.

WILL NOT BE A PARTISAN.

Caldwell the Governor, tells us he means not to be a partisan in his administration. Can Caldwell keep cool, and conduct himself cleverly for four years? Oh, the shade of the penitentiary and asylum quarrel—ghost of Banquo!

It is unkind in the Star to seek to bring up the past, after the Governor's promises of amends for the future!

Has not the Governor promised to bestow appointments upon Conservatives, provided he cannot find suitable men in his own party for the offices he may have to fill?

True, the Governor says he hopes to be able to find a sufficient number of men of education, honesty and competency in the Radical party to get all the crumbs that may fall from the Executive table; but that it cannot find men of these qualifications among the Radicals, then he will look to his political opponents for appointees.

Does not the Star see in this language, a confession that the Governor is not sure that the Radicals have a sufficient number of suitable persons in their ranks, to fill the half dozen or less appointments which the Executive is called upon to make?

It may be, however, that the Governor had a politic motive in making use of the unfortunate language in his inaugural, to which we have referred. He is a shrewd politician and may have intended his remarks for those weak-kneed Conservatives, who, he imagines, can be bought up with offices, and upon whom he would be willing to confer his petty appointments, provided they will promise to support his Administration.

We are sorry for that party whose Governor cannot name a half dozen competent men worthy of the Executive favor. Such seems to be the condition of the Radical party in North Carolina to-day. Else why did the Governor allude to the contingency of appointing Conservatives to office?

THE DOORS TO BE THROWN OPEN.

A resolution has passed Congress by a large majority, instructing the Credit Mobilier Committee of investigation to sit with open doors, and to examine publicly the witnesses that may be summoned before it.

This might as well have been done at first, inasmuch as the substance of the testimony thus far taken by the Committee has, somehow or other, found its way into the public prints; and we believe the truthfulness of the statements published has not been questioned in any quarter.

Enough is known of the developments of this gigantic swindle to prove conclusively that the members of Congress, with two or three exceptions, whose names were on the list in the Ames-McComb correspondence, received some advantage or profit, either directly or indirectly, from the Credit Mobilier stock.

We are glad, however, that all secrecy is to be removed from the proceedings of the investigating Committee, as the public would prefer to receive the official evidence rather than to get it second hand through newspaper correspondents.

We believe the Credit Mobilier affair is the most stupendous fraud on record, and that when all the dark transactions connected with the whole scheme are fully brought to light, the American people will stand aghast at the corrupt conduct of leading politicians who have heretofore stood high in the confidence and respect of the public.

When prominent members of Congress are convicted of bribery and venality, the honest men of the country will cease to wonder at the political demoralization and degeneracy of the age.

THE MORNING STAR.

We take pleasure in calling attention to the prospectus of the Wilmington Star, in to-day's paper.

The Star asks for support and recognition of its claims "on the sole ground of merit." It has now been in existence more than five years, and has been steadily growing in popular favor until it has built up a large and rapidly increasing patronage and circulation—which is the very highest evidence that it deserves the prosperity it has achieved.

The Proprietor and Senior Editor, William H. Bernard, Esq., has that practical journalistic judgment, taste and experience which constitute the safest guarantees of success in his profession, and is also a ready and forcible writer. The Junior Editor, Cicero W. Harris, Esq., wields a vigorous, fluent and scholarly pen, and with an active intellect unites invincible energy and a lofty ambition. His editorials have added greatly to the popularity of the Star.

After the above remarks, it is barely necessary for us to add that we wish this bright twinkler in North Carolina journalism a career of undiminished splendor and brilliant success.

The emigration returns from Liverpool for November show an increase of 2,000 over the corresponding month of last year.

CENTRALIZING TENDENCIES.

When the message of the President was first received, we took occasion to denounce, in strong terms, the proposition it contained, in favor of the Government's obtaining control of the telegraph and making it a part of the postal system of the country.

So long as the Government is in the hands of the political party in power and all its officers and agents are of the same stripe of politics, such a proposition amounts to the same thing as proposing to place the telegraph at the disposal and for the sole use of the Radical organization. For it is such a measure as could be carried out, no message could be sent or received without the permission of Radical officials. No information favorable to the Conservatives or hurtful to the Radical party—no political intelligence of a private nature, no matter how important it might be, could be transmitted by the wires, unless with the consent and approval of the Government! All the plans and purposes of their opponents would thus be made known to the Radicals!

The Conservative press of the country has with an unanimous voice, condemned the principle that would place all telegraphic communication under the surveillance of one political party.

The attempted arguments advanced by Post Master General Creswell, in his annual report, in favor of the President's position on this subject, have been ably and triumphantly combated by the Journal of the Telegraph, which shows that the Post Master General's figures are greatly at fault, and that he has no practical knowledge on the question.

The bare proposition itself, that the Government should acquire all the telegraph lines in the country, shows the strong tendency towards centralization which has seized those who are at the head of our national affairs, and who seem determined to drive the nation as far as possible from its ancient landmarks.

GOV. CALDWELL'S PROMISES.

The New York Tribune does not seem to put much confidence in Gov. Caldwell's "fair promises." That paper comments as follows on the subject:

"Fair promises are cheap—we must always expect to find them in the inaugural of a Governor, if nowhere else. Gov. Caldwell, who has just been inaugurated in North Carolina, however, took a bolder flight than could have been expected of him, and actually promised that he should appoint to office men who voted against him—provided he could not find suitable persons among those who voted for him."

The Tribune will consider that the Governor of North Carolina has not more than half a dozen offices in his gift to bestow, that paper will at once perceive what a heavy back-handed lick the Governor administers to his own party when he promises to go out of its ranks to make appointments, provided he could not find suitable Republicans to fill the vacant places.

The Governor said he hoped he would be able to find among his political supporters enough honest, well-educated and competent men, without resorting to his opponents for the purpose of conferring appointments!

Does the Governor mean by this that he has not a half dozen men in his party worthy of the offices to be filled by his Excellency?

The hope expressed by him implies such a doubt, and the language used places both the Governor and the Radical party in a very awkward predicament!

REPUTATION.

We publish a communication from "A Subscriber," in Stokes county, favoring repudiation of the State debt.

We do not agree with the views of our correspondent on this point, but we think our indebtedness should be classified, and the State bonds rated according to the consideration the people derived from their issue.

We have never been in favor of paying that portion of the debt which was fraudulently contracted and against which our people protested at the time. "A Subscriber" will not find any thing inconsistent in the article he refers to in the Weekly News with classifying our debt, and separating the vitiated from the honest bonds.

[From the Asheville Citizen, Let us Have Peace.]

The Raleigh News and Wilmington Journal take very sensible views about bashing up our family quarrels. We heartily endorse their views. No good can come of further contention—crimination and recrimination. Let us harmonize: let the experiences of the past be turned to lessons of good, that the results of the future may redound to our benefit as a party, a people, and a State.

The following grim statistics are copied from the New York World, which tells us that in 1870 112 persons committed felo de se; in 1871 the number had fallen to 108; while in 1872 it had risen to 140. As there was no great financial disarrangement we must attribute the increase to the severity of the weather, which has been so destructive of life and property, and consequently the death of despair in many hearts.

The deaths from accidental causes have been steadily growing for the past three years. In 1870 they numbered 791; in 1871, 851; while in 1872 they had grown to 944, exclusive in each case of death by drowning, which follow the same ratio, that is 167, 179, and 206 in these years respectively.

The Masons of Portsmouth had a feast on New Year's day.

REPUTATION OF THE STATE DEBT.

FRANCISCO, STOKES COUNTY, N. C., January 1st, 1873.

Messrs. Editors:

Your "practical suggestions," if I understand you aright, as well as "the thoughts of others," in regard to the matter of our State debt, and as set forth in your Weekly News, of the 12th ultimo, are strangely defective in several respects, but more particularly in this—that the entire public debt "so-called," seems to be recognized as consistently and properly before the General Assembly, without any question as to its validity, and consequently as ready for an amicable adjustment.

I would, therefore, beg leave, through your kindness, to make a counter statement, for the benefit of our honest and patriotic taxpayers.

That a very large proportion of the aggregate amount of our "old State bonds" had become clearly vitiated as against "the new State bonds," by being used in direct aid of the late civil war, is true beyond all question or doubt, and that the new State debt, in the proportion of at least nineteen twentieths of the total amount, has no other basis upon which to rest, than as a barefaced and infamous conspiracy against our taxpayers, on the part of certain perjured public functionaries and professional swindlers, is also demonstrable, if not already fully known and conceded by every man of ordinary intelligence in the State. Then why not assert, on all occasions, in connection with this question, these important truths, and demand in thunder tones full and ample relief in the premises for the tax payers?

Justice demands at the hands of the General Assembly a thorough investigation and classification of our public indebtedness—a classification which shall set forth impartially and fully every claim which may be found valid, and also every other claim which is as vitiated or vitiated or fraudulent, for the information of the public, and when this duty shall have been faithfully performed it will surely be time enough to talk about a compromise with our bondholders.

In private life whenever an individual finds that he has been inveigled into the execution of a promissory note, under false pretences, or otherwise defrauded to the same extent, it at once becomes his duty to notify the public of the swindle thus imposed upon him, and to disavow all obligations of payment. And this he may do without incurring in the slightest degree "the odium of repudiation."

I therefore hold, since the body politic known as the State of North Carolina has at least equal privileges with individuals in this respect, that an imperative and solemn duty is still resting upon the Conservative majority in the General Assembly to perform, without delay or hesitation or delay, the same righteous deed, as to every dollar of our public debt which is fraudulent or vitiated, in the name and under the inherent and sovereign authority of the people. Let the issue of repudiation be full and fairly made up (separately and apart from all other issues) and submitted to the people for their ratification or rejection, through the ballot box at our next regular State election, and a final question will be given to this question.

Repudiation has of late become an imperative duty, with every honest and patriotic citizen, who would be true to himself and the State, and who would consequently, with many firmness and independence, oppose the operations of the many peculating political Kings, as well as the many alarming and dangerous encroachments upon constitutional freedom.

It is now well known that the party which framed and inaugurated the existing State Government, so far as many of their leaders are concerned, were plunderers; essentially and per se, consequently sought through the sanctities of the prescribed duty to support the Constitution "so-called," full authority to rob our tax payers at will, but that they were a little too shrewd to attempt to carry out their authoritative yet atrocious programme during the General Assembly—thus repudiating both the Constitution and their oaths or the time being.

And it is equally well known, that the Conservative party which succeeded them, and which represented the overwhelming indignation of the people as expressed through the ballot-box in 1870, failed to comprehend the purport of that grand popular triumph, and hence the great confusion among the people ever since and their evident dissatisfaction with our party leaders.

If, however, that failure was a mistake, and nothing but a mistake, the opportunity is still before them, through which to re-establish themselves in the confidence of the masses. "Repudiation" is (still) the great necessity of the hour, and as above proposed, is believed to be the only process, through which the people can vindicate themselves successfully.

The New Army Uniform.
The new army uniform, worn for the first time by the officers yesterday, at the President's reception, attracted much attention. It is very showy, and the plumes of the various branches of the service are designated by different colors. The coat is of dark blue cloth, double breasted, with a skirt extending from one half to three quarters of the distance between the hip and the knee. Staff officers wear pants of dark blue cloth without stripe; other officers wear light blue pants, with stripe of similar color to that of the facings of their respective arms, except for infantry officers, where the stripe is of dark blue.

Gen. Sherman wore two rows of buttons on the breast of his coat placed in four. He wore epaulettes, and his plume consisted of three white ostrich feathers. Other general and staff officers wore plumes of horse hair or cock's feathers of a color similar to the trimmings of their coats. General Sherman and the general and staff officers wore epaulettes, light arillery and cavalry officers, black felt helmets with gold cord and tassels and gilt trimmings; other officers dark blue cloth hats. Generals Babcock and Dent were attired in full dress suits, and not in uniform, as heretofore—Washington Star, January 2.

Josephine McCarthy, the Albany doctress, who killed a man named Hall on a horse car at Utica some time ago, while attempting to shoot a Mr. Thompson, a lover, who had discarded her, and who went south free as most female murderers do now-a-days, is back in Albany advertising herself as a doctress.

[From the Norfolk Virginian, The Sandwich Islands—Westward The March of Empire.]

A ship of war has sailed from San Francisco, with General Schofield on board, bound for the Sandwich Islands, which have since roasts missionary went out of fashion among the Kanakas have been under the shadow of missionary destiny. Various speculations have been indulged in, in consequence of this movement, and the general belief is that the death of Kanehama—a chief of the correct orthography—has stimulated the Government to a little foreign intervention. A British ship of war has also been ordered to Honolulu, where it is understood two-thirds of the population is in favor of annexation. Just now the following facts, taken from the Virginian, relative to the Sandwich Islands, will be read with interest. About one-half of the entire foreign population are Americans, and they fill many important administrative and judicial positions. The native islanders, called Kanakas, are intelligent, quick-witted people, and it is said that they can all read and write their own language. They are not industrious, however, and, although possessing fine physiques, they appear to be deficient in vitality, so that the race is steadily dying out. The population of the islands, which is supposed to have once exceeded 300,000, is now barely 60,000, of whom about 10,000 live in the town of Honolulu. The total surface of the islands is 60,000 square miles, but much of it is bare, volcanic rock, and the area susceptible of cultivation does not exceed 30,000 square miles, and this would never support a dense agricultural population, because the chief staples, sugar and coffee, can be profitably cultivated only upon large plantations.

As a strategic point for naval purposes, and as a commercial entrepot, the importance of the islands cannot be exaggerated. Any second or third rate naval power obtaining possession of them could dominate the commerce of the North Pacific. They lie directly in the path of nearly all the trans-Pacific trade. As the commerce of the North Pacific increases with the settlement of the western coast of America, and the more complete development of our relations with Japan, China and the Indies, a great city must, it would appear, inevitably grow up in the Hawaiian group, to serve as a supply and coaling station for the merchant marine of all nations navigating the Pacific Ocean, and as a naval station of the power which fortunately gets possession of the islands.

President Morales, of Bolivia, after having threatened Congress with dissolution, because it would not favor his mining projects, and abusing not only members of Congress, but his personal staff, was shot dead by his own nephew, while the latter was being abused by Morales. Congress quickly elected Gen. Battison as successor of Morales.

Advices from Mentone announce the death of Lady Constance Ashley, the second daughter of the Earl of Shaftesbury.

A Louisville pick-pocket relieved Mr. P. T. Baran of a diamond pin and $300 on Sunday, December 29th, in a sleeping car.

Kansas wishes to send to the United States Senate Mr. C. W. Babcock, brother of the President's private secretary.

HOW SHE WAS WOODED AND WON.

[Marian Douglas contributes a quaint poem, entitled "Before the Wedding," which relates the experience of a maiden and a Methodist preacher. A portion of it is worth quoting here:]

But when I came to hear him preach,
He told the Gospel story
So thrillingly, through all the grove
Went up one shout of "glory!"
Bough men were bowed, hard sinners wept,
I owned his power to hold me.
His glowing fervor, like a spell,
Against my will controlled me.
"For who he is," I said, my own Admiring thoughts revering;
"A Methodist preacher, I go,
Who keeps forever moving.
Just two years in a place,
That's too hard a way," thought I,
"To run the Christian race."
I said the preacher pleased me not—
I did not wish to meet him.
And when we met I tried to see How coldly formal I could be,
And cautiously treat him;
But when a woman tries to hate,
He sure it's love beginning.
The more I frowned, the more I felt
That he my heart was winning;
Dull (may the Lord forgive) I found
The class, unless he led it,
And sweeter seemed the blessed word
Of Scripture, if he read it.
And from the clearing forest, when
As we walked home together,
He led me down a quiet path,
And calmly asked me whether
"My future should be one with his?"
And I must needs or lose him;
I felt my hold on earthly joy
Was lost should I refuse him.
"But, if I love, there's but one way,"
I said, "my love of proving;
And I am willing for your sake
To keep forever moving.
Moving, moving, moving—
Just two years in a place—
Happy, wherever I go,
If I but see your face!"

THE HIDDEN TREASURES OF PERU.
As the gold mines of Peru have now become very nearly exhausted, and the burial-place of the Incas have been entirely despoiled of articles of value, the treasure-seekers are forced to a very romantic it not altogether plausible expedient to retrieve their hopes. It has long been a tradition in Peru that in a sepulchre, situated near the summit of a high mountain, a few miles from Arequipa, gold to the value of about thirteen million dollars was buried. About a year ago some adventurous foreigners ascended the mountain with a party of Indian guides and laborers. They dug at the place pointed out by the Indians, and found a handsome vault of burnt brick. In the vault lay the dried up remains of an old Peruvian queen. On her wrists were bracelets of silver, but no gold could be discovered. Owing to the rarity of the atmosphere, the adventurers were forced to return to Arequipa, without having completed their explorations, leaving this mysterious deposit of gold to share the fate of the treasures of Capt. Kidd.

At Visalia, Cal., on Christmas Eve, a ruffian named James McCrory, who had already killed some four or five persons in that vicinity, shot an intimate friend in cold blood and without the slightest provocation, firing deliberately five times till he killed him. After a desperate fight with the police McCrory was arrested and conveyed to jail, but the citizens were so incensed that they determined to lynch him. The jail was broken into and the prisoner dragged out of the prison by an infuriated crowd. They threw a rope around the villain's neck, pulled him along to the Court street bridge, and after firmly securing the rope, flung him over the railing of the bridge. He fell a distance of some five feet, and, after waiting to see that life was totally extinct, the crowd dispersed, leaving the corpse in its semi-nude state, with the rain pouring upon it in torrents.

Miss Adelaide Neilson, the English tragedienne, is not only not a Miss, generally known, but also not English, and never a Neilson, as so to generally known. She was born in 1849 at Saragossa, Spain, of a Spanish father and English mother, and is, therefore, a Spanish lady. Neilson is the mother's name, which the handsome Adelaide assumed upon entering the theatrical profession.

Emancipation day was celebrated in Jacksonville.
